GULF GIVES MONEY FOR LIBRARY

Mr. Kenneth S. Griggs, District Manager for Gulf Oil Corporation, is shown above presenting a check for $5,000 to Dr. Paul Kenneth Vonk, President of Oglethorpe. The grant is a part of the company's educational assistance program which will distribute over $2 million to students and institutions of higher learning for various aid-to-education programs.

The grants by Gulf are made to privately operated and controlled institutions like Oglethorpe. These institutions obtain a major portion of their financial support from non-tax sources such as Gulf Oil Corporation.

The Gulf Oil Corporation stipulated that the grant be used for library improvement. Oglethorpe President Vonk commented, "This grant will be a tremendous boost to our campaign to increase greatly the number of volumes in Oglethorpe's newly renovated library. This gift will be used to establish the Gulf Collection."

OGLETHORPE COOKBOOK A SUCCESS

The Oglethorpe Cookbook, just off the press, has been an overwhelming success.

The history of Oglethorpe College is so closely intertwined with the history of Georgia, as well as the history of Atlanta, that no publication of this type would have been complete without including recipes of some of the historic figures of Georgia. Recipes by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Joel Chandler Harris and many other famous people who have contributed to the history of Georgia are included in the cookbook.

The Cookbook has been so widely accepted that Rich's is currently selling it in their stores throughout the metropolitan Atlanta area. The Board of Directors of the Oglethorpe Alumni Association, in conjunction with the Women's Club, is also trying to promote the sale of these books to alumni and friends.

ADMISSIONS

Dear Alumni:

Oglethorpe enrollment has experienced dramatic growth during the past three years. In 1965, our student enrollment numbered 425. Today we have over 1,000 students.

While we are proud of our current student body, we seek always to enroll students of outstanding quality, both in academic ability and in character and citizenship.

Dr. Vonk has said "no single aspect of the college affects its excellence more than the quality of its student body . . . not a new president, not faculty and not buildings."

Thus, we strive constantly to upgrade the student quality. There is no dearth of students and numbers represent no problem. However, the challenge is to enroll the sought after outstanding graduating high school scholar and student leader.

Toward this end, I urge your participation in the Oglethorpe admissions program. Call me at (404) 233-6864 or write anytime you have a prospective student that you think should receive a visit from an Oglethorpe admissions counselor.

The alumni have no better opportunity to serve their alma mater.

William L. Camp IV
Director of Admissions

I would like to give public recognition to APO Service Fraternity for the contribution they have rendered to their College. APO has never failed to respond when asked to serve in behalf of the College. Truly, these men reflect the spirit of service upon which APO was founded.

Paul Kenneth Vonk
President
